PhD Title	The System of Governance in Islam, Between Text & Shura
Supervisor	Dr. Bayan Yousif Rojaeb
Summary	To study and analyze the opinions of two schools of thought, that have diverged due to a difference in their understanding of the foundational principal of the Caliphate or governance in Islam. One of these schools of thought have adopted the interpretation that the legitimate appointment of the Caliphate is left up to decision by a council called Shura, and this is the Sunni school of thought. The other school of thought sees that the Caliphate must be appointed by text, and this is the school of thought of the Ahlul-Bayt. I will, as much as I can, abide by objectivity and take a scientific perspective in carrying out the study, so that it may be an aid in creating Muslim unity and unify the word of the Muslims in what is in their best benefit and in their advancement. And all my success is given by Allah, on him I rely and to him I turn.
